

THE ANTI- TEAMBUILDING TEAMBUILDING

"The Anti-Teambuilding Teambuilding" flips traditional team-building concepts on their head by embracing irony and individualism. Participants kick off with a Netflix Party watching a film ironically titled "Teambuilding", accompanied by beer and a notebook for jotting down witty quotes. Activities include creating posters promoting various offbeat locations, crafting roast comedy sketches about team-building, brainstorming the silliest team-building exercises, and designing anti-awards to highlight behaviors disliked by the team. The event concludes with cocktail-making workshops, a lively party featuring participant-selected music and photo-sharing, and an "anti-making off" competition compiling humorous footage and testimonials.
